Forecast for Saturday 12 Nov 2022

Weather: A cloudy night with outbreaks of light rain and drizzle especially for the southern fells, perhaps a few drier spells further north. Rain clearing north around dawn but low cloud and drizzle set to linger through the morning, a few clearer, brighter spells developing in the afternoon with some late sunshine possible. Clouding over again later in the evening with some mist and drizzle likely.

Chance of cloud-free hill tops above 800m: 30% gradually improving to 80% as rain clears north, then falling again in the evening to 60%.

Low cloud and visibility: Broken low cloud layers in association with outbreaks of light rain and drizzle early in the morning, cloud bases will likely be down to 300m but low cloud will gradually lift and clear by late morning with good views expected during the afternoon. The visibility will be poor around dawn but will also improve to very good in the afternoon. Cloud is likely to reform during the evening but probably scattered layers above 500m.
